Financials: A Compelling Long-Term Opportunity
Research and Selectivity Add Tremendous Value

- We believe previous headwinds for financial stocks are becoming tailwinds, leading to increased earnings, revenues, cash flows, dividends, and share buybacks.
- High-quality financial companies are selling at a discount to the market, offering the potential double-play of increasing earnings and expanding P/E multiples.
- Enormous differences exist in the performance of financial stocks, as the chart below illustrates.
- Active management, discerning research and bottom-up stock selection can add significant value in this vast, inefficient sector.

Selectivity is Critical

Enormous Differences Exist in Financial Stock Returns

- Best-Performing Financial
- Worst-Performing Financial

Average difference between best and worst performing stock since 2005: 142%

The goal in applying our rigorous research to the vast financial sector is to separate the winners from the losers, which has resulted in the Davis Financial Fund both building wealth and outperforming the Index.

Going forward, the Portfolio has three ways to win: valuations can move higher, earnings can increase and the number of shares outstanding can shrink.

To shareholders’ benefit, these improvements can magnify and compound on one another.

This report is authorized for use by existing shareholders. A current Davis Financial Fund prospectus must accompany or precede this material if it is distributed to prospective shareholders. You should carefully consider the Fund’s investment objective, risks, charges, and expenses before investing. Read the prospectus carefully before you invest or send money.

This report includes candid statements and observations regarding investment strategies, individual securities, and economic and market conditions; however, there is no guarantee that these statements, opinions or forecasts will prove to be correct. These comments may also include the expression of opinions that are speculative in nature and should not be relied on as statements of fact.

Objective and Risks. Davis Financial Fund’s investment objective is long-term growth of capital. There can be no assurance that the Fund will achieve its objective. Under normal circumstances the Fund invests at least 80% of its net assets, plus any borrowing for investment purposes, in securities issued by companies principally engaged in the financial services sector. Some important risks of an investment in the Fund are: stock market risk; stock markets have periods of rising prices and periods of falling prices, including sharp declines; manager risk: poor security selection may cause the Fund to underperform relevant benchmarks; common stock risk: an adverse event may have a negative impact on a company and could result in a decline in the price of its common stock; large-capitalization companies risk: companies with $10 billion or more in market capitalization generally experience slower rates of growth in earnings per share than do mid- and small-capitalization companies; mid- and small-capitalization companies risk: companies with less than $10 billion in market capitalization typically have more limited product lines, markets and financial resources than larger companies, and may trade less frequently and in more limited volume; headline risk: the Fund may invest in a company when the company becomes the center of controversy. The company’s stock may never recover or may become worthless; financial services risk: investing a significant portion of assets in the financial services sector may cause the Fund to be more sensitive to systemic risk, regulatory actions, changes in interest rates, non-diversified loan portfolios, credit, and competition; foreign country risk: foreign companies may be subject to greater risk as foreign economies may not be as strong or diversified. As of March 31, 2016, the Fund had approximately 9.3% of assets invested in foreign companies; emerging market risk: securities of issuers in emerging and developing markets may present risks not found in more mature markets; foreign currency risk: the change in value of a foreign currency against the U.S. dollar will result in a change in the U.S. dollar value of securities denominated in that foreign currency; depositary receipts risk: depositary receipts may trade at a discount (or premium) to the underlying security and may be less liquid than the underlying securities listed on an exchange; focused portfolio risk: investing in a limited number of companies causes changes in the value of a single security to have a more significant effect on the value of the Fund’s total portfolio; interest rate sensitivity risk: interest rates may have a powerful influence on the earnings of financial institutions; credit risk: the issuer of a fixed income security (potentially even the U.S. Govt) may be unable to make timely payments of interest and principal; and fees and expenses risk: the Fund may not earn enough through income and capital appreciation to offset the operating expenses of the Fund. See the prospectus for a complete description of the principal risks.

We gather our index data from a combination of reputable sources, including, but not limited to, Thomson Financial, Lipper and index websites. The S&P 500® Index is an unmanaged index of 500 selected common stocks, most of which are listed on the New York Stock Exchange. The Index is adjusted for dividends, weighted towards stocks with large market capitalizations and represents approximately two-thirds of the total market value of all domestic common stocks. The S&P 500® Financials Index is a capitalization-weighted index that tracks the companies in the financial sector as a subset of the S&P 500® Index. Investments cannot be made directly in an index. For each fund with at least a 3-year history, Morningstar calculates a Morningstar Rating™ based on Morningstar’s risk-adjusted return measure that accounts for variation in a fund’s monthly performance (including the effects of sales charges, loads, and redemption fees), placing more emphasis on downward variations and rewarding consistent performance. The top 10% of funds in a category receive 5 stars, the next 22.5% receive 4 stars, the next 35% receive 3 stars, the next 22.5% receive 2 stars and the bottom 10% receive 1 star. (Each share class is counted as a fraction of one fund within this scale and rated separately which may cause slight variations in the distribution percentages.) The Overall Morningstar Rating™ for a fund is derived from a weighted average of the performance figures associated with its 3-, 5-, and 10-year Morningstar Rating™ metrics. The Morningstar Ratings™ are for the specified share class; other classes may have different performance characteristics. Unlike Morningstar Ratings™, Total Return Rankings do not take into account a sales charge. Ratings are based on past performance and are not a guarantee of future results. Class A shares maximum sales charge is 4.75%.

After July 31, 2016, this material must be accompanied by a supplement containing performance and rating data for the most recent quarter end.
